User stories

Project Definition Overview.

In this exercise you will define the requirement and User stories for a web site.

The client has offered our team the following general requirements:

1. Establish a website with subscription capabilities.
2. The website will furnish insights into comprehending the stock market through the utilisation of technical indicators.
3. Information regarding the technical indicators will be presented in a blog format.
4. Subscribers will receive notifications whenever a new blog post is published.

Step 1.

Breakdown into user stories

Step 2.

Add a priority

Step 3.

Add Criteria

* Technical indicators are tools used by traders and analysts to help them analyse and predict future price movements in the financial markets, including the stock market. These indicators are based on mathematical calculations derived from historical price, volume, or open interest data